Black parish council withdraws school support

Bishop to intercede in OLG-St. Rose rift

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Mississippi Gulf Coast's Roman Catholic bishop Wednesday said he hopes to heal a rift between black and white factions of the Bay St. Louis Catholic School System.

St. Rose de Lima Parish campus of the Bay system will no longer house students after the end of this school year.

As a result of that recent decision by the system's board of trustees, the St. Rose de Lima Parish Council has withdrawn all support from the school system.

St. Rose is a predominantly black parish.

However, Most Rev. Joseph L. Howze, DD, bishop of the Biloxi Catholic Diocese, Wednesday said the council has no authority to withdraw parish support.

He explained the council is an advisory group to the pastor, Rev. Bernard Keller, SVD, who is the authority in such matters.

Keller this week would not comment regarding the council's action.

A letter from the council was distributed at St. Rose Masses during the weekend explaining the group's position and reporting the decision to move all classes of the school system to the Our Lady of the Gulf campus on Second Street.

Joseph Gex, school board president, Wednesday noted two first grade classes and two second grade classes are currently housed at St. Rose.

He said the move is necessary due to the high cost of maintaining both campuses.

The letter signed by Clementine Williams and Lonnie Bradley, president and vice president of the council, respectively, states the school system "has systematically and deliberately sought to ignore the sensitivity of black people."

The council also charges the school system took action "in direct opposition to our convictions" and represents "attempts to intentionally exclude our participation in vital decisions."

"...we sever all ties of parish involvement and we disavow ourselves, to the fullest extent, from such deceptiveness," the letter states in conclusion.

Williams Monday said no St. Rose parishioners were included in an assessment team which studied the feasibility of maintaining the two campuses and presented its findings to the school board.

She reported the school board in a split vote accepted the report and authorized moving the classes, with St. Rose representatives opposing the action.

But Gex said accusations by the council and Williams are not true.

He reported all board members voted in favor of moving the St. Rose classes except Geraldine Lang who abstained in the action.

Gex said Sister Virginia Marasco, school system principal, "tried on a number of occasions" to include St. Rose parishioners on a committee studying the social and psychological effects of the move.

"They (St. Rose parishioners) all declined to do it so sister went ahead and did it," he stated.

The board consists of Keller, Lang, Rhonda Labat and Joan Thomas representing St. Rose; and Susie Lee, Joe Marachino, Rev. Francis Ferrell and Gex of OLG, the board president noted.

Gex reported the board "delayed" a final decision at three meetings to allow input from those concerned.

He said the study found the school system could save money with the move in utility bills alone.

Gex revealed no administrator is at St. Rose and the district can not afford to hire one.

The board president added that the St. Rose facility needs extensive costly repairs.

He reported the OLG campus can handle the approximately 85 students now at St. Rose by partitioning some classrooms.

Williams said St. Rose parishioners could raise funds to repair the building and stated, "We needed time to get information to the people to see if we could have raised the money."

Howze said from a financial standpoint he supports the move, but from a social standpoint he opposes the action.

"I would not want to destroy our efforts in obtaining (black and white) unity in the area," he stated.

The bishop revealed he is drafting a letter to St. Rose parishioners explaining his position in detail.

Regarding the council's action, Howze noted the letter distributed during the weekend does not include Keller's signature.

"They (the council) have no veto power over the pastor," the bishop stated.

"They weren't supposed to publish the letter and I regretted they passed it out," he said.

"The Catholic church is still not a democracy, but we have a certain structure," Howze stated.

"I don't want to say the people have no right to participate," he said.

He explained a parish decision to drop out of a school system must ultimately be approved by the diocese.

Howze reported he hopes the council will change its position and continue to participate in the school system.

Williams said St. Rose annually contributes $13,000 to the school system.

Gex reported if those funds are lost it will "make a hardship" on OLG Parish which will have to make up the difference.

He confirmed tuition for the next school year will increase, but the St. Rose decision played no role in that decision.

The board president said about 46 black students are in the school system which educates 252 youths.

In light of the tuition hike and friction between the parishes, "The Sea Coast Echo" asked Gex if he thought blacks would enroll next year.

He replied they probably would not

Drug smuggling dangerous business, Pass man testifies

A 28-year-old Pass Christian man this week in a Louisiana federal district court related a tale of misadventure on a South American drug smuggling run which resulted in ransom demands and threats on his life.

According to Associated Press reports from Lake Charles, La., Mitchell Bates, a deckhand who signed on with a marijuana smuggling boat, testified Monday that the operation's alleged organizers were "very unprofessional" at international drug dealing.

Bates said he was captured and held hostage by Columbian military men during one of two aborted attempts to pick up a load of marijuana for Miami gambler Charles Robertson and former Florida Supreme Court Justice David McCain.

Robertson, 70, is charged with conspiring with McCain to smuggle 30,000 pounds of marijuana into the United States.

McCain jumped bail and disappeared the day before his scheduled arraignment in Louisiana, and has been a fugitive since.

Bates' testimony came in the fourth day of trial reopened with defense attorneys asking U.S. District Judge Earl Verner for a mistrial, on grounds that federal prosecutors had talked to their witnesses in private during recesses while they were on the stand.

Defense attorney Shalle Fine withdrew the motion after the witnesses testified that prosecutors had not discussed the case with them, but only passed the time with small talk.

In the first three days of testimony, prosecution witnesses implicated Robertson and McCain as backers of the plot, which the witnesses said called for "unloading" the illegal cargo in Cameron Parish.

They said the drop-off point was later switched to Pass Christian.

Other witnesses included fisherman Johnny Mitchell of Cameron, La., boat captain Robert Bosarge, and deckhand Herman Reed, both of Ocean Springs. All have pleaded guilty to smuggling charges in state court.

In Monday's testimony, Bates said he was to have received between $50,000 and $75,000 for his work as a deckhand, but never received the money due to a series of misadventures that prevented the shipment from going through.

Bates said he was hired by Bosarge and met McCain in Panama, where he was going by the name of Joe Rico.

Bates said the crew was told they would be in Panama a couple of days, but ended up staying there for a month, living on money handed out daily by McCain.

The crew finally sailed to Colombia to pick up the marijuana, but returned after failing to make radio contact with their supplier, Bates said.

The smugglers waited another week, he said, then made a second voyage to Colombia.

There Bates said, he and a Colombian named Eduardo Sanchez were seized on shore by "a small army of eight Colombians in military uniforms."

He said he and Sanchez were taken to a beachhouse and told they would be shot unless they could come up with a ransom payment.

"Eduardo said he could get them some money from his father. They said they wanted a total of $500,000 and they would let the drug deal go on as scheduled."

The Colombians sent guards to get Sanchez father, who eventually raised about $150,000.

Told the money his father raised was not enough, Sanchez offered to call "the big man in Miami," Bates said.

"He called Charlie" — Charles Robertson, Bates said.

Bates said he got on the phone and talked to both Robertson and McCain.

"I talked to Charlie first, then Dave. I explained to Dave what happened and told him we needed at least $100,000 to save our lives and the boat. 'I'm sorry, we can't help you,' he said."

Trying to buy time, Sanchez told the Colombians the only way they could get any money was if Bates went to Miami to get it.

Bates said he arrived in Miami, went to Robertson's house and explained he was in danger of losing the marijuana, his crew and the boat. Bates said he stayed four days at Robertson's house, also talking to McCain, before going home to Mississippi.

During that time, prosecutors allege, Robertson and McCain plotted another shipment from Jamaica that also fell through.

Bates said he was called by McCain about 10 days later. "He asked me if I would want to make another trip. I told him no, they were very unprofessional."

East Hancock fire station dedication slated Saturday

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The East Hancock County Fire Protection District will dedicate its new station Saturday at 2 p.m.

Leslie Page of Garden Island, District Board of Commissioners chairman, Monday reported the new facility named Central Station is on Chapman Road just south of the Washington Street intersection.

The public is invited to the afternoon event which will include recognition of standing local officials, presentation of an American flag by a member of American Legion Post No. 77 in Waveland and a Mississippi flag by a representative of Rep. J.P. Comprezza of the city, a ribbon cutting ceremony including District Five Supervisor James Travira and Garden Island Community Association President Donald Simonsen, and refreshments.

The new station can house two fire engines and other fire fighting gear, and includes rest rooms, an office and a day room area, he noted.

Central Station will serve the entire district along with the present East Hancock station at the west end of Catalina Street in Shoreline Park, he reported.

William Field Jr., district administrative chief, Monday said a new station was needed because no property was available to expand the Shoreline facility to house the district's two trucks.

The administrative chief agreed with Page's description and noted the Hancock Board of Supervisors helped his dream become reality by donating property for the facility.

Page reported the fire district was established early last year, property was obtained and the East Hancock commission had $25,000 to hire a contractor to build and construct the new facility.

The commission then contributed $5,000 to purchase materials

Council extends beach moratorium indefinitely

By WAYNE DUCOMBE JR.

The Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday night indefinitely extended its moratorium on beach construction until a new ordinance regulating that activity is established.

Councilman Gene Taylor offered the motion for the extension after reporting a three-month moratorium period previously approved would soon expire. The council and City Planning and Zoning Commission several months ago were informed an ordinance regulating beach construction contained errors which rendered the document useless.

Harry Farve, council president, said the board should extend the moratorium for a definite time period so the officials involved would quickly finalize a new ordinance.

But Taylor argued if the board for some reason did not renew the moratorium, then construction on the beach would not be regulated.

The board approved Taylor's motion with Farve casting the only opposing vote. Councilmen Shelton Seuzeneau did not attend the meeting.

Additionally, the board included the proposed ordinance in its minutes and took the matter under advisement.

The proposal calls for establishing two new zoning classifications, R-5 and C-4.

The C-4 designation includes about six beach lots owned by musician Pete Fountain at the US-90 and Beach Boulevard intersection.

Tennis courts, swimming pools, cabannas, restrooms, dressing rooms and other supporting structures may be built in a C-4 area, based on the proposal.

Gazebos are allowed in several beach areas within the R-5 designation, the proposed ordinance lists.

The ordinance also exempts Bay-Waveland Yacht Club property and American Legion Post No. 139 land located at the end of Washington Street on the basis of a grandfather clause.

Ballard Argus of Bay St. Louis, Beachfront Property Owners Association president, told the council the organization favors the ordinance, but opposes any zoning changes.

"Our interest is that the beach zoning remain residential. We feel rezoning of any kind on the beachfront is detrimental," he stated.

He said the organization endorses the concept of building a marina offshore from the present downtown commercial area in the vicinity of Main Street.

Argus said a marina would "better serve the community" at the downtown location rather than being placed adjacent to the legion's pier as proposed several years ago.

MEET CARMEN MONTGOMERY

Carmen Montgomery is the head cook here at Hancock General. She is responsible for cooking breakfast and lunch for patients, employees and visitors. A lifelong resident of Bay St. Louis, Carmen has been here at Hancock General for the past 10 years, and resides in Bay St. Louis with her three children. She and the other dietary employees have to prepare meals for four different menus. Depending upon their physician's orders, patients choose their meals from either a regular, diabetic, soft bland or low sodium diet. Within the limits of those diets, patients are given the opportunity to select their meals. A brand new patient tray delivery system has been purchased and will be instituted sometime in April. We think this new system is worth it, and we think Carmen is worth it, too. Because she and the other dietary employees know that the better the food looks and tastes, within the limits imposed by the physician, the sooner the patient can gather the strength to get well and go home. And that's one of the main objectives here at Hancock General, your community hospital that cares. And we think it's time you got to know us!

for the station's interior construction, he said.

In addition, about 10 association members donated labor to construct the interior. Bailey Electric of Hancock contributed and installed all electrical wiring. Belden Humbug of Garden Island and Slidell donated the day room and office suspending ceiling. Daniel Montz of Garden Island and New Orleans contributed plumbing supplies and installation, and water well driller James Ward of Bay St. Louis dug a well at the station at a reduced price, Page listed.

The commission president noted the fire district offers a Century Club in which anyone contributing $100 or more will have his or her name added to a plaque to be installed at the station.

Both Field and Page reported the new station is the district's first phase in an ongoing improvement program.

The district's next goal is repaying the loan over a seven-year period with county millage funds and purchasing new fire trucks to replace the aging ones, Page said.

The fire district includes Jourdan

River Estates and Isles, Garden Island and most of Shoreline Park, he noted.

Page said the district can not yet afford a full-time fire fighting department, but now needs at least one pump to replace an "ancient" truck now being repaired.

He said hopefully the district will first purchase two new trucks for Central Station and house one used truck at the Catalina station as a back-up unit.

Jimmy Varnell, department chief and an emergency medical technician intermediate, Monday reported the East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department was formed in 1968 as the first volunteer squad in the county.

Field said the Catalina station was built in 1975 on a lot donated by Shoreline Park, Inc. of Waveland.

The department now has 25 men and woman volunteers, 15 of the men are trained firefighters, three are registered emergency medical technicians, four are trained first responders, and five are attending EMT school, Field reported.

He added, the fire district is one of eight county districts statewide.

L. J. Breaux seeking State Senate post

Hancock County Chamber of Commerce President Louis J. (L.J.) Breaux of the Standard Community has announced his candidacy for the new District 46 seat in the Mississippi Senate.

A former president of the county's Farm Bureau Federation for 16 years and Livestock and Fair Association for two, the 55-year-old Breaux is a soybean farmer and owner of Breaux's Services, Inc. of Kiln, an off-road service company.

A Democrat, Breaux will be seeking the new District 46 post in the senate established in a redistricting act passed by the Legislature last year.

The district includes all Hancock County precincts except Crane Creek and Leetown, ten north Harrison County precincts, and seven precincts in western Jackson County and in the city of Ocean Springs.

Breaux and his wife, the former Jeanette Trahan, live on their 44-acre farm where they have reared seven children. They are grandparents of 12. All live in Hancock County.

The candidate is a founder and current president of the Natchez Crossing Gumbo Festival, one of the top ten tourist attractions in Mississippi.

He is a member of the Hancock County Library System Board of Trustees and has represented the county for six years on the Pearl River Basin Development District.

A director of the Mississippi State Farm Bureau for 12 years, he is vice president of South Mississippi Farm Bureau which serves 32 counties.

Breaux served for eight years as manager of Gulf Coast Dairymen's Association on South Swan Road, Lyman, and is a past member of Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission.

"I know what it takes to attract industry to our district," Breaux stated.

"I know the problems of the farmer and individual home owner, and I know what small businessmen are facing," he added.

"We live in the most attractive part of the state where tourism brings people, jobs and money into the area," the candidate reminded.

"District 46 will need leadership, the kind of leadership that builds confidence, not confusion; leadership that unites us, not tears us apart; leadership that will bring progress to all areas of our district and to all of our people," Breaux declared.

State attorney general seeking governor's office

Mississippi Attorney General Bill Allain has formally announced his candidacy for governor.

"I am running for governor because I want to finish the fight I have waged as attorney general," he stated.

"As attorney general, I have been fighting against high and excessive utility rates. We've won some victories, but we've got a lot more to do," he added.

"We've got to limit utility executive salaries, stop utilities from collecting rates under bond before they're approved, and require competitive bidding on all utility construction projects. As governor, I can win these fights and I will," Allain continued.

"As attorney general, I've been fighting to get teachers decent pay and improve our schools. I've been speaking out for adequate spending on education and an end to the waste and mismanagement which squanders the money that should be there for our schools. I want to win that fight as governor for our children," he stated.

"As attorney general, I've been battling to bring jobs to Mississippi. I've fought to hold down utility rates which drive business away. I've worked to bring jobs to Mississippi and I want to win that fight as governor."

"As attorney general, I've been battling to stop corruption in state government. I've been fighting against letting state legislators serve on state boards and commissions. I've been working to forge an effective program against crime and drugs. I want to win these fights and that is why I am running for governor."

"I know the enemies we face. I know the special interests. I know the waste. I know the corruption in state government. I know the crime and drug problem. I've met the enemy in court. I've met him in front of the legislature. I've met him before the public service commission. I've met him and we've won. I know he asks no quarter and he gives none. I know he has top level lawyers and accountants on his payroll. I know he won't let us hold down utility rates, end the waste and corruption in state government and run state and federal government for the benefit of the people without a fight," the candidate added.

"As attorney general, I've fought these enemies, as governor I'm going to finish the job," he promised.

Bill Allain was born in Adams County, on February 14, 1928.

He graduated from Natchez High School and attended the University of Notre Dame where he majored in pre-law studies. He received his law degree from the University of Mississippi.

He then entered the practice of law in Natchez. Shortly after opening his law office, the Korean Conflict broke out, and he served for three years in the United States Army Infantry.

He was honorably discharged from the service and returned to the private practice of law in Natchez. He later joined the staff of the attorney general.

In 1975, Allain left the staff of the Attorney General to return to the private practice of law, opening an office in Jackson.

On November 6, 1979, he was elected attorney general.

He is a charter member of the Civilian Club of Natchez, a member of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He is a member of the Mississippi State Bar Association and the American Bar Association.

He has practiced law at all levels of state courts in Mississippi and in all federal courts in the state. In addition, he has practiced before the United States Court of Appeals and the United States Supreme Court.

There will be a big American Legion Birthday celebration Saturday at Waveland Post No. 77's home on Coleman Avenue from noon to 3 p.m.

It will mark the 62nd anniversary of the American Legion in this country.

The public is welcome and we hope many folks will attend the big celebration.

Another event of interest on Saturday will be the Open House at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant at NSTL.

There will be an audio-visual presentation at the NSTL Visitor's Center and tours of the manufacturing plant.

Next Thursday the official dedication of the plant will be held with the Honorable Senator John C. Stennis scheduled as the keynote speaker.

We hope many of the local residents will visit the facility on Saturday because after the plant is in operation, we assume much of it will be off-limits to the public.

Some $479.5 million has been spent on the facility and we saw a little of it on a Hancock County Chamber of Commerce tour last year, and it is very impressive.

Also on Saturday, another big event for persons residing in East Hancock Fire Protection District will be the dedication ceremonies of the new central station on Chapman Road.

Many elected officials as well as individuals have worked long and hard hours to make this new fire station a reality.

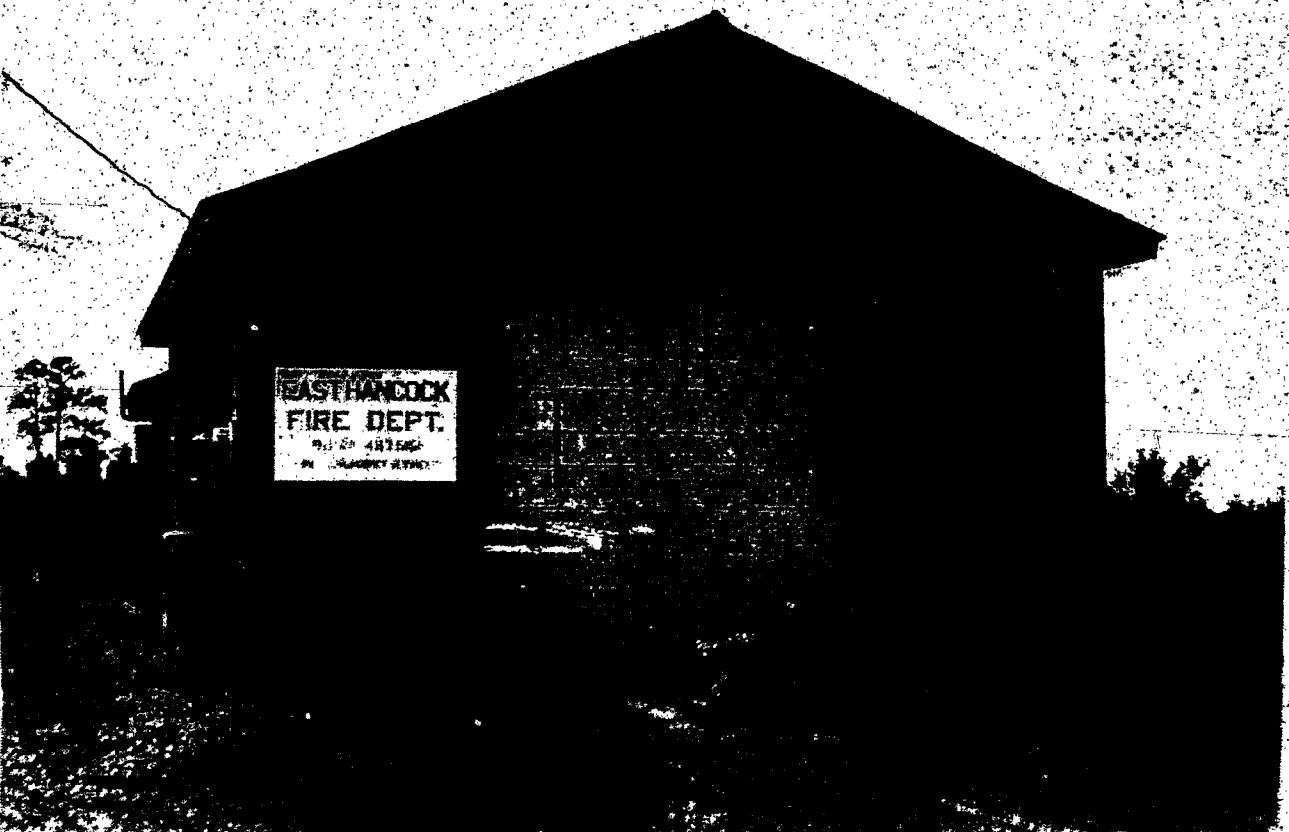

We do extend our congratulations to everyone for their contributions.

Firefighting has come 'a long way' in Hancock County as the popular saying goes.

organizations, businesses and individuals who unselfishly donated labor, materials and money toward construction of the facility which will allow expansion of department services and improve its capabilities. Good fire protection is essential in any community and East Hancock's efforts represent another step in that direction. Everyone is encouraged to attend Central Station dedication ceremonies at 2 p.m. Saturday to further recognize this outstanding community achievement. (Staff photos by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

CONSOLIDATION DEBATE
School consolidation, a subject of the 1982 Education Reform Act, will be debated by legislative and education officials next month.

The pros and cons of school consolidation of the state's public school systems will be discussed at the morning session of the Mississippi Economic Council's Annual Membership Meeting. The meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. on April 7 at the Holiday Inn Downtown in Jackson.

The Education Reform Act, as passed in special session of the Mississippi Legislature last December, requires that the new lay state board of education study the question of school consolidation.

Some counties still have as many as six school systems, with six separate school boards, a situation which some believe creates a duplication of services resulting in a drain on the state's financial and educational resources.

Among those scheduled to discuss this timely topic are Senator Ellis Beeson of Vicksburg, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and a consolidation advocate; Frank Lovell Jr., executive secretary of the Mississippi School Finance Commission, the agency which will conduct the survey; and Dr. Michael Vinson, superintendent of the Rankin County School System.

"We urge those interested in the quality of education in the state and their community to attend this important morning session," said Jolly McCarty, Pascagoula banker and chairman of MEC's Annual Meeting Committee.

Further information on the April 7 Annual Meeting can be obtained from the Mississippi Economic Council in Jackson at 568-0022.

In addition to the school consolidation debate, candidates for Mississippi governor will also address the annual meeting. ABC News Anchorman Ted Koppel is the luncheon speaker.

JOB-CREATION INITIATIVE

If the Congress found a way to create more than 3 million new jobs, it should seize the opportunity, right?

I hope it at least pays close attention to the recommendations of the Task Force on Employment Opportunities, a group created by the House Republican Leadership to come up with new jobs legislation.

We don't need the public opinion polls to tell us that unemployment is the dominant issue now, just as inflation was the dominant issue in 1980. We licked inflation and, with balanced, responsible legislative initiatives, we can lick unemployment, too.

The task force spent five intensive weeks analyzing a variety of approaches to use against unemployment and how to create more jobs.

The basic conclusion reaffirmed the fact that a healthy economy is the best creator of meaningful jobs and that the tax reduction scheduled for July 1 will spur the recovery now underway.

The task force recommended a combination of strategies, including education and training and improving America's productivity, to deal with unemployment. Some of the recommendations follow:

1. Retraining tax credits—Educational expenses incurred by an unemployed person for retraining should be eligible for a tax credit, perhaps up to half of the expenses.

2. New means of mortgage financing—Pension plans should be permitted to invest in residential mortgages and just a one percent additional commitment by the nation's private pension plans could pump more than $5 billion in new funds into housing.

The proposal could place residential mortgage investments on a more equal footing with other investments available to private pension funds, while retaining necessary protections for pension plan participants and beneficiaries.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, each $1 billion of new money for construction creates 22,400 jobs.

3. Small business investment deductions—Task force members said they could support the concept of allowing individuals to claim a deduction of up to $15,000 per year for cash investments in small business. Funds should be invested for at least three years and a number of safeguards would be implemented to prevent abuse.

4. Enterprise zones—As a means of addressing unemployment in some of America's most depressed areas, enterprise zones may represent a significant advance. The program could provide tax incentives, regulatory relief and other items to industries which re-locate into depressed areas, offering new job opportunities in the neighborhood.

There are no easy answers to the problem of unemployment, but I believe my colleagues on this important task force have offered a balanced approach which the House should consider. Hopefully, their work will receive the careful attention it deserves.

BE A GOOD CITIZEN:

People tend to litter where litter has already accumulated. Throwing trash from an automobile—be it a glass bottle, a metal container, or paper products—is like saying to someone else: throw yours, it's all right.

Litter is always ugly.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

If it concerns you, it concerns us

Hancock capable of handling federal funds;
service fees paid to Harrison unnecessary

To The Editor:

In regard to the human services funds which the government gives to Hancock County, these are now being handled through South Mississippi

Planning and Development District of Gulfport, for allocation to our supervisors for distribution to the needy.

Why can we not handle our own funding and save the money SMPDD charges us for these services?

We certainly have a large number of intellectual business people who are concerned and willing for Hancock County, its growth and its people.

Although we are having tremendous growth in our county, we have high unemployment and a large number of needy people who include low income senior citizens.

The money we have can be utilized in giving them a helping hand.

Let your supervisors know that we should wisely handle and utilize all our revenue in these days when prosperity is no longer with many of us.

May Beyer,
A Concerned Citizen

Nutrition in the Later Years

Diet is an important contributor to your good health. By making wise food choices, day after day, from childhood to old age, you can do much to improve your sense of well-being and your chances of staying healthy into the later years.

Making wise food choices means eating a variety of foods that provide an appropriate mix of carbohydrates, protein, fat, vitamins and minerals. It also means eating foods in the right amount, so that you maintain your best weight. The twin goals of eating a well-balanced diet and staying at the proper weight are sometimes difficult for older people to attain.

Most people, for instance, need fewer calories, or less food energy, as they grow older. But older people generally need the same amounts of most vitamins and minerals as they did when they were young. This means that the elderly, if they are to maintain an adequate level of nutrition without gaining extra weight, must be especially careful to eat less food while cutting down on sweets, fatty meats, high-calorie drinks and alcohol.

Exercise helps to keep off extra pounds. A person who exercises regularly can eat more without gaining weight than a person who sits most of the day. Eating too little, on the other hand, can be harmful. People who don't eat enough may become weak and unable to recover from illness or injury slowly. In addition, older people need too few calories to maintain necessary vitamins and minerals.

Older people should also pay attention to eating habits with their doctors, especially if they have a blood sugar as diabetes, that requires changes in what or how much they eat or if they are taking one or more medications for a prolonged period of time. Some medications can take away a person's appetite, and the doctor definitely will want to know when that problem occurs.

Then, too, the interaction of some drugs with certain foods can change the effects of these medications. Other drugs can alter a person's nutritional needs.

A well-balanced diet includes fresh vegetables, especially dark green and deep yellow ones; fresh fruits, including citrus fruits; low-fat dairy products; lean meat, poultry, fish and/or beans; and whole-grain breads and cereals.

These foods provide the nutrients and energy that a healthy body needs.

Eating these foods also helps to reduce the amount of fat and salt in the diet. And that's important: too much fat may increase one's risk of heart disease, and excess salt is dangerous for people who have high blood pressure.

Calcium, a mineral found in dairy products and in dark green leafy vegetables, is important for maintaining strong bones and teeth. A lifelong diet that is rich in calcium may help to prevent the bone fractures that are common in the elderly.

Older people also should be careful to get enough vitamin D, which, along with calcium, helps to keep bones strong. Vitamin D is found in vitamin-fortified milk, eggs, yeast and some fish oils. It is also produced in the skin following exposure to sunlight.

Although broccoli is a very popular vegetable in America today, it was not in general use until comparatively recent years in our country, and turn of the century cookbooks gave it scant notice.

Nevertheless, Mrs. Mary Randolph's "Virginia Housewife," published in 1824, suggested cooking broccoli "as asparagus" and dressing it "in the same manner as the cauliflower." And it is said that Thomas Jefferson grew broccoli at Monticello in the early 19th century.

In Greece and Italy, broccoli has been an esteemed vegetable for a couple of thousand years or so. Many Italian families brought broccoli seeds along with them to the new country, and the striking dark green-budded vegetable grew along with the flowers in garden plots in the suburbs of New York City and Boston and other centers where the Italians congregated.

But it wasn't until the early 1920's that commercial interests began to grow and distribute broccoli. I like broccoli, raw, sliced into a green salad. I like it barely steamed, still crisp, with just a tinge of melted butter and lemon. Cooked, it makes an excellent "bed" for turkey or chicken or ham a la king, and it's a natural for stir-frying.

One of the way I like it best is this variation of that old Southern classic, Spoon Bread. Here's:

Violet Duncan's Broccoli Spoon Bread

1 small bunch fresh broccoli
3/4 cup yellow corn meal
2 Tbsp. flour
1 tsp. salt
4 Tbsp. butter or margarine
1 cup sliced celery
1/4 cup chopped onions
4 eggs, separated
1 cup milk
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1/4 tsp. hot pepper sauce
2 cups water

Cook broccoli until tender, in very little water, drain. In medium sauce pan, combine corn meal, flour and salt, and gradually add water. Bring to boil, stirring until it thickens. Stir in two tablespoons of the butter or margarine.

Melt remaining butter or margarine in a skillet, and lightly saute the celery and onions. Stir into the corn meal mixture. Beat the egg yolks into the mixture, then stir in the milk, broccoli, cheese and hot sauce.

Beat the egg whites and gently fold into the mixture. Turn into a buttered two-quart baking dish (pyrex or other). Bake at 375 degrees for 55 to 60 minutes or until the top is crusty and golden brown. Spoon it out to serve with chicken, roast, ham, etc.

Glendora businessman eyes governor's seat

Glendora businessman Mike Sturdivant, pledging to put his business know-how to work to attract jobs and upgrade education, announced his candidacy for governor this week.

"I'm running for governor because I believe we need a governor with the commitment and experience to carry forward Mississippi's educational reforms and to attract new jobs to our state," Sturdivant said in a series of press conferences held across the state Monday and Tuesday.

The 56-year-old Sturdivant cited the present administration's accomplishments in securing legislation to upgrade the state's economic development programs and initiate a landmark program of educational reform.

"The challenge of the next governor is to deliver the leadership and management know-how to make that legislation work," Sturdivant said.

The only issue in the gubernatorial campaign is "which candidate can do more than talk about better jobs and better education."

"The issue is who can keep Mississippi on the move," said Sturdivant.

The state has been working hard to attract industry, said Sturdivant, citing transportation, energy, resource development and financing as areas currently being pursued.

Sturdivant, who operates hotel properties, farming interests, and other business ventures said he "understands job creation first hand and will put the weight of the governor's office behind an all out effort to put Mississippi back to work."

MIKE STURDIVANT

The state's record-high unemployment makes job creation the "most critical task facing our next governor."

Citing an educated work force as a key ingredient in attracting new jobs, Sturdivant said he intends to focus attention on education in the first three grades.

"I will use all of the resources at my disposal to ensure that each child leaves the third grade with basic reading, writing and arithmetic skills," said Sturdivant.

Sturdivant, a 1949 graduate of Mississippi State University holds a degree in agricultural engineering. He attended Harvard Business School, but returned to Mississippi on the death of his grandfather to take over his family's farming operations in Glendora.

In 1956, Sturdivant opened the first Holiday Inn in the state in Meridian. He now heads Mississippi Management, Inc., a nationally-recognized company based in Jackson, which operates thirteen hotels across the southeast.

In addition to his business interests, Sturdivant served on the Board of Institutions of Higher Learning where he headed the finance committee. He is a former member of the West Tallahatchie County School Board and is on the Millsaps College Board of Trustees.

He is currently chairman of the Mississippi State University Centennial Drive to raise $4 million for the Fine Arts Center at MSU; a member of the executive committee of the Mississippi Economic Council; chairman of the Board of Managers of Methodist Hospitals of Memphis, the second largest hospital system in the world; and a director of the Delta Council.

Sturdivant is a veteran of the Korean War.

He and his wife Yvonne have four sons and one daughter. They are members of the Glendora United Methodist Church where he teaches an adult Sunday school class.

Turn homeplace into workplace

More and more Mississippians who want to stay at home, but need to earn money, are finding that home businesses make good sense, and good money, too.

Bonita Bridges, consumer money management specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said the number of residential businesses in Mississippi is increasing.

Home businesses range from those which require little initial investment and only moderate special training to those which require years of special training and a great deal of initial investment.

A typist, for example, does not require as much special training as a lawyer. Nor does a hair stylist have the same investment in equipment to make as a dentist.

Mrs. Bridges said the prospective self-employed should consider several things before launching a private business.

"Persons considering their own business should first determine what services or products they have to market, or offer to the public. Then they need to evaluate the need for that service or product in their community," Mrs. Bridges said.

If it appears there is a need for the services or product, what experts call a "market for the commodity," the next step is to determine how to attract customers.

Mrs. Bridges outlined several characteristics of the successful self-employed.

"A person who is going to be successful in business must be willing and able to take financial risk. Patience, perseverance, willingness to work long, hard hours and the conviction to stand by one's decisions are also necessary for success in private business," Mrs. Bridges said.

The business owner must be able to deal firmly, yet pleasantly with customers and others, and in a knowledgeable manner. The owner must also be a careful and efficient manager of time and money.

There are disadvantages to operating a business at home.

"Frequently home work space is inadequate. There are no fringe benefits such as life and health insurance or paid vacations, and there are frequent interruptions from family and friends," Mrs. Bridges said.

There are also advantages to working at home. For one thing, a home worker doesn't have far to drive each morning.

"Low overhead, being your own boss, elimination of the cost of daycare, no need for expensive work wardrobe, work schedule is more flexible, and greater personal satisfaction are among the benefits of working at home," Mrs. Bridges said.

"Record keeping is a necessity. The Federal government defines a business as a pursuit carried on for livelihood or for a profit. Records are necessary to determine the amount of profit earned in a given tax year."

"Any home business will have fixed expenses such as depreciation, insurance, property taxes, and licenses. Flexible costs might include labor expenses, materials and utilities," Mrs. Bridges said.

The greatest problem most people face in entering business is the establishment of credit to meet initial funding requirements.

NEW TREE SEEDLING

Slightly increased prices for tree seedlings will be in effect for the 1983-84 tree planting season, according to State Forester Sid Moss of the Mississippi Forestry Commission.

Sale of the 1983 crop of pine and hardwood seedlings will officially begin next month, with lifting from the nursery beds and delivery to state late in the year (early December). The new pricing looks like this:

Loblolly and Slash Pine—$18 per thousand picked up at the nursery; $19 delivered to the county.

Longleaf Pine—$20 per thousand, picked up; or $21 delivered to the county.

All Hardwood Seedlings—$70 per thousand, picked up; or $76 per thousand delivered to the county.

Cottonwood Cuttings will sell for $30 per thousand, picked up; and $36 delivered.

Commission Forest Management Chief Freddie Jordan says there should be ample cost-sharing help available for tree planting through the Federal and State forestry incentive programs, especially for landowners who sign up for these payments and get their seedlings ordered reasonably early in the year. Up to half the cost of planting trees may be recovered by qualified landowners under the incentive programs. A tax credit is also available.

Seedling applications may be secured from any County Forester and from many county agent's offices.

USM agreement affords studies in England

The University of Southern Mississippi and the University of Essex in the United Kingdom have signed an agreement which will allow U.S. students to take courses year-round on the Colchester, England campus.

The agreement, which will also provide and exchange of faculty members, was signed by Howard Newby, dean of Comparative Studies at Essex and Dr. William Taylor, director of the USM Institute of Anglo-American Studies.

Taylor said that the Institute of Anglo-American Studies, which is coordinated through USM, offers international programs to students at 16 universities in the southern and southwestern states.

Newby said the agreement will allow American students to live near London and to study in an international environment.

"A student does not have to live in London to enjoy the social and cultural advantages of the city, its museums and art galleries," he said.

"In addition, Colchester is near a major port city which offers easy access to the European continent. Essex offers several excursions as part of the curriculum and other continental travel is available," he added.

Newby also said that Essex's courses were similar to the curriculum at U.S. universities and that there are many interdisciplinary degrees available.

"The language barrier is no problem," he said, "and the exposure to a different culture is probably as valuable as the academic training."

According to Taylor, the cost of a year's education at Essex is around $7,000. Some American universities cost as much as $11,000 per year.

Med technicians plan conference

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum/Convention Center will be the site of the 1983 National Educational Conference of the National Association of Emergency Medical Technicians on April 28, 29, 30 and May 1.

The conference will provide an opportunity for emergency medical personnel from throughout the nation to receive instruction in the latest techniques of emergency care from nationally known and highly qualified staff, according to Becky Farnham, project director, Mississippi Gulf Coast Emergency Medical Services District, who is also conference chairman.

Sponsored by Mississippi Emergency Medical Technicians Association and the Mississippi Gulf Coast Emergency Medical Services District, the conference entitled "Caring from Coast to Coast," will feature 50 workshops.

Classes in marine rescue, diving accidents, hyperbaric EMS, rapelling and extricating will be of special interest to EMS personnel in the Gulf Coast states, according to Steve Delahousey, local program chairman.

A mock trial of an EMT, one of the highlights of the 1982 Conference in Boston, will be conducted. Jim Page, editor of "Jems' Journal of Emergency Medical Services," will act as the defense attorney.

Other special features will be MAST trouser workshop and a program on the role of civilian EMS in wartime presented by a Pentagon official.

Tracks for EMT-A's, Intermediates and Paramedics, training coordinators, administrators, fire/rescue and military personnel will be offered.

For additional information call the MGCEMSD, (601) 868-6977.

Taft Seminar is June 6-17

Thirty elementary and high school teachers, administrators and librarians who teach government and politics in public and private schools will be nominated to attend the Mississippi State University-sponsored Taft Seminar for Teachers June 6-17.

The seminar will be held at the Mississippi Education and Research Center in Jackson. It is co-sponsored by MSU's Stennis Institute and the Department of Political Science.

This is the fourth year for MSU's Taft Seminar and Stennis Institute. Director Dr. Morris W. Collins Jr. said he hopes to invite all declared state gubernatorial candidates, as well as both Democratic and Republican elected officials and other political experts "to explore operation of the two-party system and ways for individual citizens to carry out their political responsibility."

The Robert A. Taft Institute of Government directs its principal effort toward teachers. It is an educational organization, nonpartisan and nonprofit. Contributions from individuals, corporations and foundations support the Taft Seminars.

The deadline for application is April 20 and more than one professional from each school is urged to apply.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting the Stennis Institute of Government at MSU at 325-3328.

Colmer Building to be dedicated at Gulf Islands National Seashore

The National Park Service is dedicating the new Mississippi District Headquarters of Gulf Islands National Seashore on Friday, April 1 at 10 a.m.

Superintendent Frank Pridemore said the building, begun in 1981, is to be named in honor of the late Congressman William M. Colmer.

Among the dignitaries participating will be Congressman Trent Lott who will deliver the dedication address.

The public is invited to the dedication which will be held at the new building located in the Davis Bayou Area, Ocean Springs.

William M. Colmer served as the U.S. representative from Mississippi's Fifth Congressional District from 1932 until his retirement in 1973 where he was succeeded by Lott.

Colmer actively worked for Congressional approval of a national seashore along the northern Gulf of Mexico for 10 years before finally seeing his dream come true.

His efforts were instrumental in bringing about final approval of the Gulf Islands National Seashore legislation in 1971.

The Colmer Building is composed of two wings connected by a common entry lobby.

One wing houses the Mississippi District's administrative offices, conference room, and library; the other wing contains a sales and information area, auditorium, and exhibits.

The exhibit area will feature copies of water colors by Walter Anderson, a well known local artist who spent a great deal of time on the islands in the years before the creation of Gulf Islands National Seashore.

Also on display will be a bronze bust of Colmer which was done by Mrs. L.O. Crosby Jr. of Piquette.

The area around the Colmer Building includes a pier, picnic area, trails, boardwalks, and decks which provide excellent views of the marsh, bayou, and waters of the Mississippi Sound.

Lady Eagles end cage season 17-10

Southern Mississippi's Lady Golden Eagles ended the 1982-83 season in a loss to eventual Metro Conference champion Louisville in the conference tournament's opening round played in Louisville. The 75-71 loss to Louisville gave the Lady Eagles a 17-10 record, USM's sixth winning season in six years under coach Kay James.

Junior guard Joye Lee ranked second on the team in scoring, finishing with a 15.7 average as she scored in double figures in 21 of 27 games. Sophomore forward Portland McCaskill, the metro Conference's leading scorer this season with a 19.8 average, also led the Lady Eagles in several other categories. The Mendenhall resident paced the club in rebounding (10.2), steals (68), blocked shots (29) and minutes played (960). She finished second in assists with 89 and scored in double figures in 26 of 27 games.

The 5-9 forward broke Diana Lyons' (1978-79) record for points scored in a season with 535 and Lyons' mark of 431 for field goals attempted in a season with 462. She also set new school records for a season for scoring average (19.8), most field goals (223), and most blocked shots (28).

Sophomore guard Dianne Backstrom was the only other Lady Eagle to break a record as she posted a new school mark for assists with 148. The mark of 135 was set by Jim Dedeaux in 1978-79. Backstrom finished third on the team in scoring with a 11.5 mark.

The team's lone senior, 5-10 center Rose Smith, ranked fourth in scoring with an average of 11.0 and was also second in rebounding at 7.4.

As a team, USM broke several school records including most field goals made College, Southwestern Louisiana, Belhaven, Jackson State, Delta State and Memphis State.

They lost to North Carolina, Southwestern Louisiana, Louisville (2), South Alabama, New Orleans (2), Delta State, Louisiana State, and Mississippi College.

(912) and most rebounds (1,240).

USM recorded victories over Tulane (2), South Alabama, Arkansas State and Mercer to win the first Lady Eagle Classic, Troy State (2), Austin Peay, Tennessee-Chattanooga, Alabama-Birmingham (2), Mississippi

USM's Lee has successful season

The 1981-82 basketball season was a successful one for the University of Southern Mississippi's Lady Golden Eagles, and for junior guard Joye Nell Lee of Leetown as well. Lee finished the season as the club's second leading scorer with a 15.7 average and finished second on the team in free throw percentage (77.2), and third in both assists (83) and steals (41).

Lee, who started 24 of 27 games while helping lead the Lady Eagles to a 17-10 record, scored in double figures in 21 contests and was a major reason USM ranked high in the nation in scoring with an average of 83.3 points per game.

In USM's final game of the season in the Metro Conference tournament against Louisville, Lee became just the fourth player in Lady Eagle history to score 1,000 points in a career. Lee has now totaled exactly 1,000 points in her three seasons.

Lee scored over 20 points seven times this season, including a career high 29 against Mercer in the finals of the Lady Eagle Classic and against North Carolina in the opening round of the Auburn Dial Classic.

The 5-7 guard joined the Lady Eagles after a very successful prep career at Hancock North Central, where she played for coach Charlie Jacobs. She averaged 19.0 point, 10.0 rebounds and 4.0

assists and was named to all-district and all-South state teams twice.

"Joye had a successful season for us and provided great leadership for us both on and off the court," head coach Kay James said. "With so many sophomores on the team we needed someone to be a leader on the floor and she filled the role for us very well."

Lee, who is majoring in business distributive education, with a minor in secondary education, will be the only senior on next year's USM team and James is expecting big things from her in 1983-84. "Joye has been improving each year and we are expecting next season to be her best ever," the veteran coach said. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Lee.

Gulf Coast track season underway

The Gulf Coast Junior College track team, runner-up for the state title last year, opens the 1983 season with a meet against Hinds on Thursday, March 24.

Bulldog Coach Sekul said the squad includes three returning lettermen. They are high hurdler Dwayne Gayden, Biloxi; intermediate hurdler Mike Patterson, Moss Point; and quartermiler Lavell Bradley, George County.

Freeman sprinters are Eddie Collins and Teddy Weatherly, both of Gulfport; Jessie McCorvey, St. Martin; Warren Carey, John Ehret in New Orleans; Marion Blackmon, George County; Brock Clark, East Central; and Jeff Eaton, Long Beach.

Rounding out the team are hurdles Mike Farris, Ocean Springs; and Billy Wiles, St. Martin; distance runners Matt Campbell and Ed Woods, both of Ocean Springs; Paul Atkins, George County; and Charles Washington, Biloxi.

Pole vaulters Wayne Westmore, Ocean Springs; Robert Smith, George County; and Mark Scott, George County.

THE FISHIN' HOLE

By BREARD SNELLINGS

Mississippi's first hunting season on wild turkey opened last Saturday and continues through April 6, and this period may be some of the best turkey hunting ever for sportsmen if the weather cooperates.

The second half of spring turkey season is from April 8 through May 1.

According to officials at the State Department of Wildlife Conservation in Jackson, Mississippi has a turkey population of over 200,000, and 60 counties will be opened for hunting this season.

According to the department's population surveys this past year, the turkey population is low in south Hancock and Harrison counties and low in southwest Jackson County.

The turkey population is moderate in north and west Hancock county, north Harrison County and most of Jackson County.

The density is also moderate in George County and eastern Stone County.

The survey shows the turkey population and density to be high in Pearl River County, most of Stone County, Perry County and Green County.

The density stays high moving up the eastern part of the state all the way through Noxubee County.

According to the survey, the best turkey hunting areas in Mississippi, where the density is very high, is along the western border from Washington Parish to DeSoto Parish.

During the spring season, hunters will be allowed to take only gobblers, and may take one per day, two per season, but only three per license year.

Wildlife officials say that some 40,000 hunters will be out after gobblers this season and that it is not unreasonable to expect a harvest this season of some 35,000 birds.

Biologists say the good expectations are a tribute to Mississippi's turkey restocking and management plan, which has been a success in most counties.

This is in sharp contrast to the mid-1950's when the state boasted only four public hunting areas for wild turkeys.

But the state's turkey population has grown tremendously in the last 30 years, and now ranks among the top four states nationally in turkey hunting.

Wildlife enforcement officials would like to remind hunters that hunting over bait or with the aid of electronic devices is illegal, as is shooting from a vehicle, hunting from a public road or using dogs or live decoys.

Hunters must have a valid hunting license before going after gobblers. Hunting hours are one-half hour before sunrise until one-half hour after sunset.

If turkey hunting isn't your bag, then perhaps you'd like to try some freshwater fishing.

White perch (sacalait, crappie) are spawning and bedding along shorelines of lakes and large rivers channel edges, and can be taken with popping jigs or live shiners.

Catfish are also running good with the water like it is - fast and dirty.

Catfish can be found in deep holes in the rivers, and they like to take a crawfish bait over anything else.

Other good catfish baits are cut bream and chicken parts.

It's still a little too early to fish for large bream in the rivers and lakes, but they should be along the banks spawning and building their nests once the weather turns warm for awhile, probably by the second week in April.

Bass fishing is difficult when the water is spread out like it is this time of year.

Saltwater fishing is still slow, and will be til next month.

Some people are going to the Louisiana marshes and picking up a few speckled trout, but the redfish have stopped schooling. Flounder fishing is good right now, fishing running water with live cacaho minnows.

Crawfish season is in full swing, and if you haven't caught any or bought yourself a sack, now is the time to do so.

Thirty-two species endangered in state

Mississippi presently has about 32 endangered and 5 threatened wildlife species, according to federal and state lists; though we have no listed endangered or threatened plants, about 250 species are considered of special concern.

These and other interesting facts about wildlife resources are brought out in four radio programs that deal with the general subject of rare and endangered species, some reasons for the current status of such species, and how man has been attempting to protect them from extinction.

The programs have been taped for the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory's weekly 5-minute radio series called "On Course," which is broadcast six times weekly by commercial stations across the coast.

Information is presented in an interview format with Juanita Ferguson and Kevin Howe, education specialists at the Laboratory's Marine Education Center, being interviewed by Catherine Campbell, GCRCL public information officer, who also produces "On Course."

Program one will be aired by the participating stations at the series' regularly scheduled times beginning the week of March 21, and continuing for the following three weeks. The times and locations on the dial where these programs may be heard are as follows:

WOSM, Ocean Springs, 103.1 FM, 5:55 p.m. Saturday; WPMP, Pascagoula, 1580 AM, 11:30 a.m. Monday; WGUD, Moss Point, 106 FM, 3:33 p.m. Monday, 11:30 a.m. Thursday, 3:33 p.m. Friday; and WRPM, Poplarville, 106 FM, 10:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Stake championship goes to Mae Mae Girl

Mae Mae Girl 59, an eight-year-old bay mare, was recently awarded the Youth High-Point Champion title for Stake Racing class competition in Denver, Colorado.

The mare compiled 15 performance points in Stake Racing competition to lead the field and take the coveted title. Mae Mae Girl 59's owner is Debra Kay Bennett, of Pearl-ington.

Thousands of horses compete each year in AQHA-approved shows, each vying for year-end awards such as the High-Point, an award presented to the horse which has compiled more points in a particular class than any other horse in that particular year. During 1982, more than 2,500 AQHA-approved shows were conducted, with 720,812 entries in the shows.

The American Quarter Horse Association is the world's largest and fastest growing equine breed registry, with more than 142,000 members and nearly two million registered Quarter Horses filling its files.

borella, Rachel Hays, Jeri Wimlish; back row: coach Frank Gray, Julie Quintard, Shannon O'Brien, captain Kristine Erickson, Kristy Kidd, Andrea Ambrose, Elizabeth Black. Missing are Amy Fayard and Kathy Kergosien.

Seven soccer teams clinch playdown

This weekend's soccer in the Under 8 Division was a nail-biting, heart-pounding variety. Coca Cola, fighting for a playdown berth, narrowly edged the Firebirds 2-1. Then in a battle of the unbeaten Purple Knights, after a scoreless first half, clinched first place behind Scott Pepperman's three goals to shut out the Bears. The result is a tie for second place between the Bears and Coca Cola with Coca Cola holding the edge on a Goals Against basis.

In the Under 10 Division Stark's Restaurant got a win when Hancock General Hospital was only able to field five players. Meanwhile Little Italy easily handled McDonald Realty 3-1.

In the Under 12 Division Dr. Murphree DDS, blew their game against the Strikers wide open in the second half to win going away, the Strikers having only seven players. The win earned a playdown berth for Dr. Murphree despite Hale Homes; victory over the Golden Eagles later on in the day. The Sea Coast Echo "Panthers" continue to improve with the strong defensive play of Shannon Maggio and Theresa Gagnon, but it wasn't quite enough as Ocean Springs shut them out 3-0.

In the Under 14 Division Gulf Coast Waste was hard-pressed by the Scrappers who lived up to their name, but Gulf Coast eventually won 3-2 to maintain their unblemished record. Bay Waveland Tire was shut out by Picaune. Homes of the South hosted SMSC who only had nine players. The visitors led for three quarters of the game, until they ran out of gas and Shane Foreman put on a dazzling shooting display. It was the fine defensive performance of Russel Ladner and Scott Dembock which kept Homes of the South in the game until that point. The final score was 7-2. Then on Sunday Homes of the South shut out Picaune 2-0 in a wide open, well played game by both teams.

The SportsWorld "Gladiators" fell behind early to Ocean Springs 3-1, missing several first half opportunities. But, with less than fifteen minutes remaining Kristy Erickson sparked a comeback with a goal, which led the way to a 4-3 victory. Kathy Kergosien had an outstanding game in goal and Patricia Garcia saved another goal with an excellent defensive play.

The final weekend of the regular season finds in the Under 8 Division at 10 a.m. Scrappy Doo vs. Hancock Bank; 11:30 a.m. Firebirds vs. Bears in a "must win" game for the Bears; and at 1 p.m. Specialty Metal vs. Coca Cola.

In the Under 10 Division at 10 a.m. American Legion vs. Hancock General Hospital. In the Under 12 Division there has been a schedule change: at 10 a.m. Mary Carter Paints vs. Dr. Murphree DDS, and at 1 p.m. Picaune vs. Stark's Restaurant; and at 1 p.m. American Legion vs. Hancock General Hospital.

The District Playdown schedule has been announced, and the Bay Area Soccer Club has been selected to host the Under 8 Playdowns. There will be eleven boys' teams playing a single elimination tournament, and three girls' teams playing a round-robin tournament. Paul Montjoy and Joanne Duncan are the BASC Tournament Coordinators, and they will be contacting sponsors and volunteers to assist in preparing the fields.

EMOTIONAL FATIGUE

Dr. Wm. L. POWELL

All that's really needed usually is for the husband to have an educated heart, much patience and kindness, and before long they almost all recover promptly. However, in rare cases, the condition may become more deeply seated, and in this case, Chiropractic care has been found to be very beneficial, as it relaxes the body and allows the nervous system to function normally again. It has been found that very few people can be emotionally fatigued when their nervous system is functioning up to par—good health and cheerful attitudes go together.

PRC Wildcats 13-4-1 in baseball

After the first 18 ballgames, Pearl River College has put together a sparkling 13-4-1 overall record and is hitting the ball for an eye-opening .343 average.

The Wildcats have just completed a very strenuous spring break which included 12 games against teams from Wisconsin, Tennessee and Louisiana.

Under second year head coach Ned Eades the Wildcats won five of eight games played against Wisconsin Stout, a four year school in Wisconsin; won one and tied one with Jackson State Community College out of Tennessee; and swept a doubleheader from LSU at Alexandria.

Pearl River has 58 games on tap for this spring, however, only 12 will have a bearing on the Wildcats' hopes for a Mississippi state title. The Wildcats kicked off their 12 game South Division slate with a doubleheader at home Monday against Jones Junior College.

For Eades and the Wildcats to have a shot at a state chamionship, PRC must have the best record in its half of the South Division.

Last year, Gulf Coast Junior College, a school that had won the state title 15 out of the past 18 years, and Pearl River tied for first in the Wildcats' half of the division. After sweeping a doubleheader with Gulf Coast to force a tie on the final day of the regular season, Pearl River lost the division by losing to the Bulldogs.

Wildcats have been anxiously awaiting the arrival of tomorrow's South Division opener.

So far this year, the Wildcats have made no secret about what it's going to take to keep them from winning the title—good pitching—no, great pitching.

Eades currently has 12 men who are hitting above the .300 mark. Seven of those hitters have been to the plate over 25 times.

Leading the way for the Wildcats is sophomore shortstop-pitcher Rupert Wood, the only .300 hitter in the top ten with less than 25 official trips to the plate, with a .529 average.

BIG SHAGGY DOG—Cocking her head in an inquisitive pose is this large shaggy female dog which is available to a good home with a fenced yard by telephoning 255-8855 or 255-1135. The gentle animal which when standing is about three feet high was thoughtfully abandoned by the owners. She is a good watchdog and would probably be an excellent pet for a family with children. Milo heralded as alternative crop

By JIMMY BONNER
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Farmers and officials alike are showing optimism for grain sorghum as another cash crop for the state's financially-strapped growers.

Grain sorghum, also called milo, is being heralded as an alternative crop for growers to spread economic risks and reduce pest problems in crops.

Interest in the crop was apparent at a recent grain sorghum seminar in Jackson, where about 100 farmers and officials gathered to learn more about the crop's potential.

more economical than soybeans at present prices.

Sonny Baskin, a Yazoo City farmer, said he planted grain sorghum for the first time in 1982 and produced yields averaging 4,500 pounds an acre. The state average is 2,900 pounds.

"At current prices, it takes about 3,000 pounds of grain sorghum and 20 bushels of soybeans to give the same income," Baskin said. "We feel we can get the grain sorghum yields easier than the soybean yields."

Baskin said he planted 400 acres in grain sorghum last year and plans to increase acreage this spring. He said grain sorghum also is easier to grow than some other crops.

A panel of farmers addressing the group agreed that producing grain sorghum can be grown cotton, grain sorghum is a joy to grow, Baskin said.

Farmers in the state are expected to plant 160,000 acres of grain sorghum this spring, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and some officials predict actual plantings may be even higher.

Profit potential for grain sorghum planted in the state is considered fair, provided yields are good. Current prices are about $4.25 per hundred pounds, with higher prices expected this spring.

Mark Butler of Florence, another farmer on the panel, said he planted 300 acres of grain sorghum last year and also plans to have more this year.

One problem Butler said he encountered is available markets to handle all of the grain sorghum he produced at harvest.

Butler said poultry producers who buy the grain sorghum as feed often can't use all the grain sorghum as quickly as it is harvested. Unless a farmer has other markets, storage is required.

"To produce grain sorghum profitably, you need a close marketing outlet," Butler said. "You can eat up all your profits in transportation costs."

Grain sorghum marketing facilities are improving in the state as more grain elevators and poultry producers are buying locally produced crops. Grain sorghum is used primarily as livestock feed.

Farmer H.M. Waldrop of Florida said he started out four years ago feeding his grain sorghum to livestock, but is now selling in more attractive markets.

Waldrop told the group success in growing grain sorghum requires planting in good soils where crops have the best chance for top yields.

Crop specialists say continuous cropping of soybeans leads to problems with nematodes, low soil organic matter, and hard-to-control weeds and diseases.

Dr. Charles Baskin, seed and grain specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said grain sorghum is a natural crop to rotate with soybean to reduce problems with soybean cyst nematode.

The cyst nematode is a problem in soybeans in many counties in the state," Baskin said. "Grain sorghum is a non-host crop for the nematode."

The soybean cyst nematode is a tiny organism occurring in soils. It reduces soybean yields by damaging the crop's root system.

Grain sorghum's extensive root system adds organic material to the soil, improving its water holding ability and other characteristics.

Farmers are able to produce grain sorghum and soybeans simultaneously since grain sorghum is planted and harvested earlier and the same equipment is used to produce both crops.

The Excitable Boy Grows Up

The excitable boy, Warren Zevon, took to the stage alone last week in New Orleans. The one-man show that followed was a virtuoso performance and gave evidence that Zevon's material has matured as the excitable boy has grown up.

Zevon has long been a favorite in California with friends such as Jackson Browne, Don Henley, Linda Ronstadt, Waddy Wachtel and Lindsay Buckingham contributing musical accompaniment and harmonies to many of his best tracks. With the delightfully delinquent "Excitable Boy" album, Zevon catapulted into national stardom aided by the success of the feverish single, "Werewolves of London."

His stylish lyrics, at once lurid, grotesque and poetic, are sung in a forceful, visceral manner. "Little old lady got mutilated late last night, Werewolves of London, again."

—or— "Patty Hearst heard the burst of Roland's Thompson gun and bought it."

Two Albums, "Stand in the Fire" and "Bad Luck Streak in Dancing School," did quiet business as Zevon continued to map new musical ground.

With the arrival of his latest album, "The Envoy," Zevon begins to look at 20th-century America with jaundiced, scrutinizing eyes. His music is boisterous, as usual, but his lyrics seem to be taking on a new seriousness.

In "Charlie's Medicine" he sings of a drug dealer's demise: "A respectable doctor from Beverly Hills, shot his through the heart, Charlie didn't feel a thing. Neither of them did... poor kid."

In "Jesus Mentioned" Zevon pokes candidly at a very macabre subject—the fact that people still stand vigil at Elvis Presley's grave in Graceland. It would seem that some sort of religious fanaticism has been firmly impressed in these people's minds.

Zevon sings, "He went walking on the water, He went walking on the water, He went walking on the water, With his pills."

Black comedy abounds on a Zevon album and "The Envoy" is no exception. In "Ain't That Pretty At All," Zevon displays his callous attitude with lyrics like: "I just took a short vacation, Roy, spent it getting a root canal. Oh yea, how'd you like it? Well it ain't that pretty at all."

So I'm gonna throw myself up against the wall... Cause I'd rather feel bad than feel nothing at all."

And in "The Hula-Hula Boys," Zevon is evidently broken-hearted but he fights back with lyrics like: "Well I didn't have to come to Maui, to be treated like a jerk. How do you think I feel, when I see the bellboys smirk?"

A great flute solo highlights this tenderly outrageous song. In concert, Zevon was on top. Peppercorn. Ranging from an Ovation acoustic guitar, to harmonica, to the piano, Zevon carried a solid 90-minute program. Beginning with the great song, "Lawyers, Guns and Money," and ending with the crowd's favorite, "Excitable Boy."

MEC

MISSISSIPPI'S BEST
Each year many of Mississippi's high school seniors are honored for their scholastic achievements as part of a statewide program to identify Mississippi's emerging young leaders.

This year, on April 7, these outstanding high school students will be honored again as Mississippi's top STAR Students. These students, in turn, will name their STAR Teachers, instructors who the students feel have been instrumental in helping them attain scholastic excellence.

STAR stands for Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition and is administered through the M.B. Swayze Foundation of the Mississippi Economic Council, the state's chamber of commerce. Since its establishment in 1965, the STAR Program has recognized hundreds of Mississippi's top students and their teachers.

STAR honors, which are based on American College Test scores and grade point averages, will be awarded at the April 7 MEC Annual Membership Meeting in Jackson. The three students ranking highest in this year's STAR Program and their teachers will be awarded scholarships. These awards are funded through the Phil Hardin Foundation in Meridian.

The Mississippi Economic Council appreciates the opportunity to help recognize the state's top high school seniors, their teachers, and their schools. These are the people and institutions who are forming the Mississippi of the future.

Hancock Library System to honor teenage clients

This April, teenagers will be the honored guests of the Hancock County Library System. April 18-23 when the library will celebrate National Library Week by emphasizing "Service to the Young Adult."

Programs for this special week will include: drama, computers, health, bodybuilding and armed forces recruiters.

"Teenagers are frequent users of libraries, yet in many they're often ignored, or worse, put up with. They need to know that the Hancock County Libraries want to serve them," said Becky Mitchum, children's librarian.

The City-County Library has specialized reference books, magazines, encyclopedias, and other materials that may be utilized for school assignments. A new reading section composed of fiction written for teenagers has also been created, she pointed out.

"Help the library honor Young Adults this National Library Week by planning to attend the programs April 18-23. The Hancock County Library wants you to know 'It's yours in Mississippi Libraries,'" Mitchum stated.

Forestry Association to sponsor teachers conservation workshop

Educators in Mississippi interested in studying the environment will have an unusual opportunity to do so this summer.

This study may be performed at no cost to individual teachers, unless they attend for graduate credit.

The event will be the 20th annual Teachers Conservation Workshop. The date for the workshop is June 12-17 and will be held at Gulf Coast Junior College, Perkinston.

The workshop is sponsored by the Mississippi Forestry Association in cooperation with the State Department of Education, Mississippi State University, and University of Southern Mississippi.

Participants may earn three hours of graduate credit through the Division of Continuing Education, at either MSU or USM. The tuition fee is payable to MSU or USM upon acceptance to the workshop. No undergraduate credit is available.

Lodging, meals and other expenses are paid for by industrial and business firms who are members of MFA.

Educators wishing to attend the workshop should contact Mississippi Forestry Association, 620 North State Street, Jackson, Ms 39202-3398.

Registration is available to teachers and administrators of grades 1-12. Deadline for receiving applications is May 31.

Time at the week-long workshop will be almost equally divided between classroom sessions led by authorities from industry and education, and interesting field trips to see firsthand some of the information gained in the classroom.

Subject areas range from the environment, forest management, and utilization of wood products, to game management and studies of soil, water and minerals.

Some 15 different areas of study related to conservation education will be covered.

PARISIAN ADVENTURE—A vacation in Paris for the Doctor and Romana makes for an unusual earthbound adventure during the next serial in the "Doctor Who" series, "City of Death." An underworld plot to steal the Mona Lisa sends the Doctor and his companion scurrying about the City of Lights as well as back through the far reaches of time for a visit with the Doctor's old friend, Leonardo da Vinci. "City of Death" can be seen in four parts beginning at 6 p.m., Friday, March 25, and continuing Monday-Wednesday, March 28-30, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Tom Baker stars as the rejoinable Doctor, and Lalla Ward portrays Romana. Beginning in June, Mississippi ETV will begin airing all new episodes of "Doctor Who," starring Peter Davison as the new intergalactic time traveler.

Write About Why Mom Is Special --And Win A Mother's Day Plate

Shopping for that special gift for mother to honor her on Mother's Day can be a problem for youngsters with limited spending money. This year 100 young people will be able to present their mothers with a porcelain gift of appreciation, the Bing & Grondahl Mother's Day Plate. For the fourth year, Bing & Grondahl Copenhagen Porcelain will give the current edition of their famous annual series to 100 students who write the most appealing letters telling "Why I Love My Mother."

The Danish company is best known for giving the world its first Christmas plate in 1895 and its first Mother's Day plate in 1959. It is valued at approximately $500. The 1983 Mother's Day Plate features raccoons, a native American animal, and continues the theme of motherly love in the animal kingdom. The 6" blue and white porcelain plate is sculpted in relief, hand decorated underglaze, and pierced for hanging. Contest winners will be notified by the first week in May and will receive the gift boxed prize in time for the holiday.

"In the past three years we have judged thousands of letters from across the country," says Paul Steffensen, president of Bing & Grondahl in the U.S. "We have received letters from parents and teachers, as well as students, and believe our contest provides an opportunity for youngsters to focus their thoughts on basic values. Awarding the plates yearly makes 100 families experience a memorable Mother's Day."

Students between the ages of six and eighteen are eligible to enter the contest. Letters on "Why I Love My Mother" should be no longer than 100 words. The deadline is April 8, 1983 and entries must include student's name, age, home address, school, and grade. Send letters to: B&G Mother's Day Contest, c/o ADMA, 6 Cherry Valley Terminal Road, West Hempstead, New York 11552.

Book Review

Study of Faulkner's Work
A highly praised book for readers who want to understand the greatness of William Faulkner's writing has been reprinted by the University Press of Mississippi.

John Pilkington's "The Heart of Yoknapatawpha," originally printed in 1961, is a study of the Nobel laureate's nine major novels set in the mythical Yoknapatawpha County, Mississippi. The book was out of print in less than a year after publication.

Pilkington's assessment of each novel is of benefit to scholars as well as to general readers. "It should become a standard work in Faulkner commentary," says Joseph Blotner, Faulkner's biographer.

This new edition printed in paperback makes "The Heart of Yoknapatawpha" more widely accessible to those wishing to study the works of Faulkner but fearing the complexity of many of his novels. Pilkington's perceptive discussions clarify many difficult parts of the novels.

This book is available in bookstores and from the University Press of Mississippi, 3825 Ridgewood Road, Jackson, MS 39211 at $8.95 plus state sales tax.

WEIGHT CONTROL

"Nova" reports some new findings about weight control and dieting that may have important applications for daily life in a new documentary at 8 p.m., Tuesday, March 29, on the Mississippi ETV Network. The program, "Fat Chance in a Thin World," reports that — most overweight people don't eat any more than thin people do, and many eat less;

— repeated dieting may actually make an individual heavier;

— it's almost impossible for some people to get fat, while for others, it's almost impossible to get thin.
